Preface

The evolution of human society from agrarian to information society is the story of men and women struggling to make their life more secure and better. This struggle to bring about changes shall never end, so also the occurrence of new revolutions. It is important, therefore, that the activities of such persons as have contributed to such revolutions, are recorded systematically and faithfully so that the coming generations learn from their experiences and draw due benefit for the good of society. The effort shall have to be global, each nation cooperating and contributing its share.

Of all the resources of a nation, human resource is the most important. To learn about the leaders, the persons who make news and those who are in news, will tell about a country as the history itself. Since men and matters are inseparable, people are also interested to have the background information on the social milieu, the social motives, and the social pressures on the individuals who created news or were in news.

The Indians in News, which is intended to be an annual publication, is a source of information on those men and women of India who created news or were in news for certain reasons during the year. It also includes those who are of Indian origin but are living and operating in foreign lands and were in news.

A biographical dictionary is an important source of information. It tells about the important persons whose contributions to the society—positive or negative—have been significant. Since persons are connected with matters everybody uses a biographical dictionary, to know about men and matters. A conventional biographical dictionary, however, suffers on two counts. One is that it is always out of date; the information that was correct at the time of its compilation, in many cases, has changed and is no more accurate now. Second is that a good number of persons included in it are no more relevant as they have now ceased to be active to create news, or to be in the news. There has always been a need of some current biographical tool.

A majority of seekers of information are interested only in those who are active and kicking—the persons who are the cause of happenings and are participating in matters that are significant. But the society is dynamic and things are changing fast. Men and matters do share this phenomenon. Persons who were unknown yesterday have come to limelight today. Some create history, others cause controversies, win honours, commit frauds, get accused, change places, get promoted, serve the society, kill or get killed or simply pass away. These or many other things are happening to one or another person at this or that moment. Information seekers wants to know the latest. The Indians in News serves this purpose because it is a biographical dictionary of those Indians who are currently in the news, and are relevant to the present times.

The Indians in News includes persons reported or discussed in such newspapers or journals as the Tribune, Times of India, Indian Express, Hindustan Times, India Today, Outlook, The Week, Competition Success Review, etc. Alongwith the write-ups proper references have been given to connect the information about the person with its original source and also to guide the users to it, if they so wish. In a way this work may very well serve as an annotated index to the above newspapers and journals, and promote their use further.

Though every matter is connected with one or another person, only such persons have been selected for inclusion in this work, whose role was significant and not of a routine nature. Another consideration was that the news with which an individual is connected should be of a lasting value.

The Indians in News, 2002 consists of two parts. Part I consists of records of persons in news, arranged systematically in an alphabetical order by their surnames. The persons who do not use their surnames are entered under their personal names. Under the name of the person is given the summary of the events because of which the person was in news. A brief biographical note is also added where warranted. The source of information is given so that the newspaper or journal reporting the news is easily accessed by the researchers. To keep up the authenticity of the information even the text of the original, in some cases, has been retained. This has been done to benefit the researchers in such subjects as history and political science. The following examples taken from Parts I and II of this work shall make the presentation more clear:

Sivaji Ganesan died on July 21, and therefore was in news. His record in Part I is as under:

Ganesan, Sivaji

Sivaji Ganesan, 74, a Dada Saheb Phalke awardee died at the Apollo Hospital in Chennai on July 21, 2001 due to heart ailment. He is survived by his wife, two sons, and two daughters. [Sivaji Ganesan dead. Tribune. July 22, 2001: 22] ...

The above news about the death of Sivaji Ganesan, a famous South Indian Actor, on July 21 was reported in the Tribune of July 22. Alongwith the news of Sivaji Ganesan in this work, the reference of the source also appears in the end of the write-up. This very news as reported by the Competition Success Review and the India Today has also been given alongwith the references of the sources, following the above write-up. Some duplication of information notwithstanding, variations of views by different journals tell more about a person.

Part II consists of three indexes—General Index, Chronological Index, and Broad Subject Index. These indexes have been added to facilitate the use of Part I and access the desired person in news discussed or described there.

Information whether empirical data or knowledge is a vital national resource, necessary for the well-being and security of a nation, as also for international relations. Information as such is the strength of a nation. Its growth and usage need proper care and coordination so that it is not wasted but properly utilized. An important purpose which this publication will serve is to promote the use of information about persons in action, the organisations they run, progress they make, failure they face, and the overall impact of such activities on the society. Such facts and information as is given in this work, shall be a necessary input in writing history and in propounding political and economic theories in the days to come.

In a work like this there can be some omissions and inconsistencies. For instance the date of occurrence of an event and its reporting do differ and also the rendering of Indian names into English. We shall be grateful to our readers if they point these out. Any suggestion towards the improvement of this work shall be gratefully acknowledged.

This publication is a valuable Biographical Source Book and as such indispensable for every library. It will update the existing sources of biographical information available in the libraries. Students and researchers of Political Science, Public Administration and History will find this work very useful reference tool for their present and future use. It shall also be consulted extensively by those preparing for various competitions. Because of the nature of its contents, this tool shall be used by everybody—intellectuals and common people.

We acknowledge with a deep sense of gratitude the help we have drawn from the above newspapers and journals. Proper bibliographical references have been added to acknowledge this help and to connect the description of the person in this work with the source where it has been taken from so that the readers of this work may go to the original source to have the complete information or to check the facts for themselves.

In a way this work may serve as an annotated index to the biographical contents of these sources and may motivate many users to be the regualar readers of the newspapers and journals referred to above.

The papers and journals are valuable source material for the scholars and researchers of social sciences, particularly those of Sociology, Political Science and History. For their benefit the original text has been retained in some cases so that they may use or quote the same in their research work, with a reference to the original source. Since the raw information on which the contents of this work are based has been drawn from the above sources, the compilers once again place on record the sense of gratitude they owe to the Managements and Editors of the above Newspapers and Journals.

In a work like the present one, many people contribute to complete the task. There are a number of them whose assistance and support demand

.ecognition. Important among them are those journalists who covered the events, sought facts from the persons themselves, or located and retrieved the relevant information from the record in their archives about them and presented it to the public through the newspapers they were working for. Without their sustained efforts such publications as the present one would not have been possible. We are grateful to them. There are many others like them and we may not be in a position to name them individually, we nevertheless thank them.

Mrs. Aarti deserves our thanks for taking pains in preparing the final draft of the main part. The lay out of this work has been designed and type-setting done by Mr. Rajesh Sharma. We are sincerely thankful to him. Our thanks are also due to M/s Orient Offset, Delhi for printing this work nicely and promptly. Lastly, we are extremely grateful to Mr. P.L. Sharma for the sincere efforts he has put in to see this book through.

Indians in News

A

Aamir Khan

Aamir Khan's Lagaan is a superbly crafted story of human triumph, it turned theatres into stadiums and shook up an industry stagnating with the decade-old-feel-good family formula. The applause for Lagaan was not restricted to the boundaries of India. The jury and audiences at film festivals across the globe lauded the venture, thereby proving that with good story, geographical and lingual borders prove porous. The final gratification came when the film was nominated as India's official entry for the U.S. Academy Awards in the best foreign film category. For Khan, this year had another benchmark, Dil Chahta Hai, the offbeat movie about three friends and their romances not only set ablaze a new hairstyle, it pleased both the critics and the distributors. While Lagaan will ensure Khan's place in the history of Indian cinema, Dil Chahta Hai helped touch new heights of emoting excellence. [Even with odds. India Today. December 31, 2001: 84]

Abdul Kalam, A.P.J. (Dr.)

Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam, Father of India's indigenous missile development programme and Principal Scientific Advisor to the Govt., demits office. He has resigned in an apparent bid to pursue further academic interests and helping scientists across the country in developing their research capabilities. Dr. Kalam is likely to join the Indian Institute of Science in Bangalore as a professor emeritus. [Tribune. November 11, 2001: 8]

Abdul Latheef, M.

M. Abdul Latheef, 65, MLA and General Secretary of the Indian National League (INL) passed away at the Government Hospital at Chennai following a heart attack. He was elected to the Tamil Nadu

Assembly from Vaniyambadi in May 10, 2001 elections. He was an MLA for four terms. [INL leader Abdul Latheef dead. Tribune. December 18, 2001: 7]

Abdul Rashid, Mirza

Rajya Sabha M.P. Mirza Abdul Rashid hails from the sensitive Poonch-Rajouri area of Kashmir. Born in Darhal town of Rajouri district, Mirza Rashid's political career started when at 27 he was appointed general secretary of the youth wing of the Congress in 1963. He remained in the Congress for 33 years as a committed activist but had to leave due to differences with the party leadership. He joined Dr. Farooq Abdullah's National Conference in 1996. After the resignation of Dr. Karan Singh as Chairman of the State Autonomy Committee, Mirza was nominated as a member of the Committee in 1996. And, in April 2000, he was elected to the Rajya Sabha.

As a Congress candidate, he won his first assembly election from Rajouri constituency in 1967 and also in 1987 and from Darhal in 1972. In the Cong-NC coalition government headed by Dr. Farooq Abdullah, he was given the Cabinet rank in 1989. His performance as Speaker of the Legislative Assembly from 1987 to 1990 is still remembered by political parties and leaders alike. Known for his interest in literature, Mirza Rashid used to infuse life into the proceedings of the house with frequent references to Urdu couplets. He still continues this practice while addressing Parliament or other official meetings. He says, "the passing of the Autonomy Resolution in the State Assembly of J&K unnerved Pakistan. I believe that if autonomy had been accepted by the Government of India, the majority community of the state would have straight away joined the mainstream. Pakistan would have been isolated. [Majority of the Muslims of J&K do not want Pakistan. Tribune. November 3, 2001: Windows 1]

Abu Salem

UAE lets Salem go as India could not prove identity. Abu Salem Ansari came to Mumbai in 1983 from a nondescript village called Sarai Mir in Azamgarh district of UP and sold garments near Crawford Market. He then started illegal PCO at Arsa Market in Andheri and soon joined the D gang as Romesh Sharma's driver. Sharma, Dawood's one-time frontman, is now cooling his heels in Tihar.

Soon. Salem was put through his underworld-christening rite and became Abu Samaan, after being entrusted with the job of delivering firearms (samaan). He continued to do so till as late as the 1992-1993 Mumbai riots. Police allege that Salem played a key role during the riots and later teamed up with Tiger Memon to smuggle RDX into Mumbai.

The police also charge him for supplying the controversial AK-47 to Sanjay Dutt, which the actor allegedly destroyed later. But that was that. Before or soon after the blasts, he joined Dawood in Dubai only to be booted out when he got Gulshan Kumar killed in 1997 without taking Dawood into confidence. Ever since, he has been operating from New Jersey, Nairobi, Nigeria and has several passports.

Salem has escaped arrest by a whisker not once but twice in the UAE itself. He was detained by the UAE authorities in 1997 for a forgery case but was released since the UAE did not have an extradition treaty with India. The treaty was signed in May 2000, but this time Salem escaped because India could not produce his fingerprints to prove that it was actually he. At the moment, it's thumbs down for India.

Agarwal, Naresh

Lok-Tantrik Congress Party (LCP) leader and UP Energy Minister Naresh Agrawal was dropped from the ministry on August 10, 2001. In the morning the governor was informed about CM's decision to drop Agarwal. In a meeting the senior party leaders were of the view that government should no longer tolerate Agarwal's antics. After informing the Governor, the decision of the CM was communicated to Naresh Agarwal on telephone at Hardwar.

Claims and counter-claims about the number of MLAs in the pro and anti Naresh Agarwal camps in UP continued till August 12, 2001. Even after the split in LCP no resignation was received from any minister. On August 12, 2001 LCP splitted and Naresh Agarwal was expelled from the Party. [Power less in U.P. Times of India. Ajit Singh has gained immediately by becoming the Union Minister of Agriculture and the BJP expects to reap the benefit in near future at the coming assembly elections in U.P.

Ajit Singh has no charisma and in the coming elections the anti-incumbency factor shall also be there. The performance of Ajit Singh under the circumstances will be crucial for his political future. [The Ajit Singh factor in U.P. Tribune. July 26, 2001: 8]

Amritraj, Vijay

Vijay Amritraj is a top-ranked tennis player, the first professional athlete from India in any sport, winner of 16 major tournaments, successful businessman and actor. For Vijay Amritraj, all these accomplishments were just a prelude to the greatest honour of his life –becoming a Messenger of Peace for the United Nations.

"This is Everest," he said in an interview on the eve of his appointment on February 9 by Secretary-General Kofi Annan to his new role of helping to focus worldwide attention on the work of the United Nations. "This is… the top of the mountain."

Since 1954, when the late US comedian Danny Kaye became the first goodwill ambassador for the United Nations Children's Fund, leading personalities in the arts, sports, literature and public life have been travelling around the world advertising the work of UN agencies. In 1997, Annan created a new title – Messenger of Peace – to try to raise global awareness of the UN's primary work in promoting peace through a wide range of activities.

Amritraj becomes only the eighth Messenger of Peace, joining boxing great Muhammad Ali, actor Michael Douglas, basketball legend Magic Johnson, opera star Luciano Pavarotti, Nobel Peace Prize winner Eli Wiesel, Italian author Anan Cataldi and French singer Enrico Macias.

"You can't even put any other kind of achievement in the same league," Amritraj said. "This is not just an honour to me. This is for my country, to have an Indian be able to do this."

Being a Messenger of Peace, he said, will give him the chance to work with children, especially those who are orphans and handicapped, as well as promoting AIDS awareness. The position is not a full-time job, nor is it a paid post. It is largely up to each Messenger – working with UN officials – to decide how to carry out the role. Arif, S.M.

S.M. Arif, who is the mentor of Gopichand has been bestowed with the Dronacharya Award (Badminton) which carry the award money of Rs.2.50 lakh. The Union Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports announced the Award on August 2, 2001. [Arjuna Award for Milkha, Abhinav; Khel Ratna for Gopichand. Tribune. August 3, 2001: 1, 16]

S.M. Arif, who received the Dronacharya Award on September 29, symbolizes the finest qualities of a sage and a guru.

As a guru, Arif moulds attitudes of his trainees – their attitude to sports, studies and to life. He lays stress on fair play on and off the court. He demands total dedication and intense application from his wards. He lays stress on total personality development, in which sports plays a vital role.

Arif is easily a sage among the coaches. His acumen has been assimilated during his coaching spread over three decades. His coaching has a quality that goes deep into areas like physical fitness and psychology besides the theory and the practical aspects of coaching. He is meticulous to cover the 'why' and the 'how' of all areas that touch a trainee. This includes his/her eating and sleeping habits; recreation and even socializing.

His coaching is on a one-to-one basis. "While sensitive players get put off by mere pointing out a fault, there are those who need extra efforts to bring home a point. Some need a mere hint while others learn through repeated effort", points out Arif.

"So the sensitive one needs to be toughened up and the tough ones further built upon", he adds. Also, each player progresses at his speed, with his capacity. Arif works as a catalyst. He takes care not to be overbearing. That may discourage the trainee.

Himself a cool person, nothing ruffles Arif. He is soft-spoken. His biggest virtue is his modesty. Touch of Hyderabadi 'tehzib' is visible in his talk. But he demands Arjuna's accuracy from his wards. "Hit the inner edge of the line. And leave the shuttle if it is half an inch out", he tells them and inspires them to achieve that precision.

Arif works with his wards demonstrating finer nuances which badminton has in plenty. That needs patience, which he has in abundant measure. His motto: When hard work does not pay, harder work does.

No wonder, his trainees have done him proud by winning several international, national and umpteen state level titles. P. Gopichand winning the All-England title has given him the biggest satisfaction. And his joy knew no bounds when Gopichand received his award, the coveted Rajiv Khel Ratan, along with him.

A medal at the 2004 Olympics at Athens is the target Arif has set his eyes on. He is confident that his wards will make his dream come true. Success story of every outstanding man has always a woman partner. In Arif's case his wife Fatima is a pillar of strength. [Arif demands total dedication. Tribune. October 20, 2001: 18]

Ashok Kumar

Ashok Kumar, popularly known as "Dada Moni", who left his indelible mark on the silver screen with his brilliant portrayals, died after prolonged illness in Mumbai on December 10, 2001, family sources said. He was 90. He is survived by his son, Arup Kumar, and two daughters, including actress Preet Ganguli.

Before entering films, Ashok Kumar was a law student in Kolkata. He started in movies as a laboratory assistant at Filmalaya Studios, founded by his brother-in-law Sashadhar Mukherjee.

An actor by default, Ashok Kumar, was forced to act in 1936 by Himanshu Roy of Bombay Talkies as a hero in Jeevan Naiya, when the original leading man of the film fell ill. The shy and reserved hero, hailing from a zamindar family from Bengal, made a faux pas when he was asked to jump on the back of the villain at a given cue, but inadvertently jumped on him before time, leaving the villain with a fractured leg.

Addressed as Dada Moni, by both the young and old in Bollywood, the legendary artiste carved a niche for himself on the silver screen as a versatile actor, who could fit into the boots of any character with ease, doing equal justice to every role.

Described as an actor par excellence who sailed through diverse roles with equal élan, be it the suave upper class barrister, the cigar-smoking detective, the ugly deglamorised talented singer or the iconoclast-hero, for Ashok Kumar, acting came effortlessly.

One of his early hits was Achhut Kanya in which he played a Brahmin boy and featured opposite Devika Rani. The actor shone in films like Mahal, Samadhi, Howrah Bridge and Khoobsurat. Ashok Kumar also produced movies like Mahal, Majboor, Mashaal and Ziddi for Bombay Talkies.

Dada Moni had also cherished to become a director of Hindi films. He, later, launched his Ashok Kumar Productions and went on to produce Maa, Kalpana and Meri Soorat Teri Aankhen. Ashok also portrayed negative roles in Kismat, Aarti, Ustadon ke Ustad and Jewel Thief. The actor switched over to character roles with Kanoon and Oonchey Log. He teamed up with his two brothers – Kishore Kumar and Anoop Kumar – in Chalti Ka Naam Gaadi, which was a major hit.

Ashok went on to win the National Award for Ashirwad in 1969. He was also presented with the Lifetime Achievement Award in 1996 for his 62-year contribution to the film industry.

Ashok Kumar was called Statesman Star by the India Today which summed up his life sketch as: Dadamoni, they called him. Suggestive though the term was of his personal attributes. Ashok Kumar was ultimately the man who radiated caliber through a career spanning 60 years in Bollywood. From the hamming hero of the pre-dubbing talkies to an innumerable array of character roles, he kept pace with an evolving cinema with seamless ease. From his debut Jeevan Naiya (1936) he moved on to hits like Kismet, Mahal, Bandini, the smooth rogue in Jewel Thief and the cameo performer in Shakti and Khubsoorat. While quoting from the autobiography of Admiral Sir Andrew Cunningham, A Sailor's Odyssey, that it takes three years to build a ship, three hundred years to build a tradition and an hour to destroy it all, former Admiral Vishnu Bhagwat has said, "George Fernandes has not dismissed Admiral Vishnu Bhagwat, he has destroyed an institution." Major Bhatnagar of 5 Para had been found guilty of violating good order and military discipline during Operation Vijay in the Kargil sector in 1999. He had, however, been acquitted of the more serious charge of disobeying lawful command while on active service.

The first charge, under Section 41 of the Army Act, stated that on June 15, 1999, Major Bhatnagar, while performing the duties of company commander, when ordered by Commander 80 Brigade, Brig. Bhonsle, Asha

Playback singer Asha Bhonsle has been selected for the Dada Saheb Phalke award for the year 2000. The award carries a cash prize of Rs.2 lakh, a shawl and a "swarna kamal". The award was instituted in 1969 to commemorate the outstanding contribution of the late Dada Saheb Phalke to the Indian film industry. President K.R. Narayanan will give away the prestigious award later this year.

Born on September 8, 1935, Bhonsle was initiated into music by her father Dinanath Mangeshkar. Having sung her first song for a Marathi film in 1944, she celebrated her 57th year in the entertainment industry this year.

Bhonsle has the unique distinction of having sung nearly 12,000 songs practically in every Indian language. The versatility of her voice and talent have been acknowledged through a host of awards conferred on her, including the National award twice and the prestigious Filmfare award eight times. [Phalke Award for Asha Bhonsle. Tribune. October 19,.2001: 1]

Singing legends like Lata Mangeshkar and Asha Bhonsle are not born everyday. Strangely, when they do, they come as contemporaries. It is gratifying to learn that Asha Bhonsle has also won the prestigious Dada Saheb Phalke Award, which was conferred on the elder sister a few years ago. The siblings have thus joined an exclusive club of 31 eminent personalities who have won this higher honour of the film industry. Lata may be ahead in talent, but Asha has dazzled with her sheer versatility. More than 12,000 songs that she has rendered in almost all Indian languages range from light classical to raunchy numbers to Indipop. Decades have gone by but her voice has remained as young and naughty as when she sang her firs Marathi song in 1944. Music directors ranging from O.P. Nayyar to A.R. Rahman have turned to her for stressing the youthfulness of their heroines. She carries her years so lightly that it is difficult to realise that the lilting voice behind the curtain to which current heart-throbs like Urmila Matondkar lip-sync is that of 67 year old. In a TV interview to seek her views on Asha winning the award, Lata Mangeshkar described her as "Mast Ram' for her carefree attitude. That was just a sisterly banter. How proud she felt on her kid-sister's big day could be read in her eyes. But there was a tinge of regret in brother Hridayanath Mageshkar's remark that while lesser singers had got high national awards, Asha had not even got a Padma Shri. But then, that is how the establishment functions. In any case, she has won the National Award twice and the prestigious Filmfare Award as many as eight times.

The most outstanding feature of her 57 years in entertainment industry has been her keeping up with the times. Her style of singing never got dated in this long, long period. Rather, maturity brought a new lilt, a new freshness to her voice. Nor did she ever shy away from experimenting. At a time when most singers were lamenting the advent of remix versions, Asha coolly realized that the trend could not be wished away and instead of watching other do shoddy cover versions of her immortal songs, she herself started packaging them with a new beat. That helped today's generation to rediscover her. Even otherwise, the songs she does manage to sing occasionally are enough to swell her huge fan following. The first Indian vocalist to receive a Grammy award nomination has reacted in a gracious, underplayed way to her selection for the Phalke award. Had it come earlier, she said, it might have made her complacent. At this age and stage, it will prod her to do even better. Amen to that! [Evergreen Asha. Tribune. October 20, 2001: 10]

Dada Saheb Phalke awardee and eminent singer Asha Bhonsle receives the Dayawati Modi award for her invaluable contribution in promoting Indian art, culture and education. Bismillah Khan, Ustad

Janaki Bhatt writes about Ustad Bismillah Khan who has been awarded Bharat Ratna this year. Ustad Bismillah Khan was born on March 21, 1916. He belongs to the family of professional Shehnai players of Dumrao, the then princely state in Bihar. At the age of six, he moved to Benaras, where his maternal uncle, Ali Bux, introduced him to the nuances of playing the Shehnai. He practised in the temple of Balaji, in Mangala Maiya Mandir and on the bank of the Ganga. The solitude of temples and flowing waters of Ganga inspired him to invent and improvise the raagas which were previously considered outside the range and realm of the Shehnai.

At the age of 14 he was adjudged as the best performer at the All India Music Conference at Allahabad in 1930. In 1931 he was awarded a gold medal at a Music Festival in Lucknow. In 1937 he was awarded three gold medals at the Music Conference in Calcutta. On August 15, 1947 he was invited to play at Red Fort to mark the unfurling of the Tricolour for the first time. He has participated and performed in countless music functions and ceremonies, including the World in Montreal in 1967, the Cannes Art Festivals in 1969, the Osaka Trade Fair in 1970. In 1995, the World Music Institute celebrated his 80th birthday in New York.

Ustad Bismillah Khan has great attachment with Benaras, and though he had many offers from other places, he has not left this city. Also he does not like to compose for films. He said that the new party would fight to realize the demands of Muslims as well as to uphold the country's secular character. [Shahi Imam to float party. Tribune. March 21, 2001: 8]

The slanderous utterances by the Shahi Imam of Jama Masjid, Syed Ahmed Bukhari, about cine star and Rajya Sabha MP, Shabana Azmi, during a weekend television show recently were indisputably in poor taste. The unflappable Shabana Azmi's fault was that she dared to ask the religious leader why he had not gone to Kandahar to carry forward the so-called 'jehad' when he had issued a fatwa to all Muslims. Responding to questions over the telephone, the Shahi Imam said he did not want to respond to someone who was a "Nachne Gane Wali Tawaif". The hostess of the programme implored the Shahi Imam to tender an unqualified apology but he refused to do so. Earlier, Shabana had questioned the Imam's authority to give a call for 'jehad' following the US attacks on Afghanistan saying his writ "did not run beyond the area where he lives" in the national Capital. Chandra Shekhar

The former Prime Minister Chandra Shekhar and his Bhondsi ashram in Gurgaon is the subject-matter of the editorial: VVIP squatters in the Tribune of July 26, 2001. Bhondsi ashram came into existence in 1983, and it expanded considerably after Chandra Shekhar became PM for a few months in 1990. Today it is ten times its original size. It is the prime property whose total value runs into hundreds of crores of rupees. His possession consists of hundreds of acres of forest land and that of BSF land. The Supreme Court has not only sought a compliance report by the end of the month, but has also passed instructions so that there is no attempt to cut the trees on the land. Chandra Shekhar is not the only VIP who sits cosily over public property. There are hundreds – if not thousands – of his like who also do so with impunity. They think that the VIP tag means they are above the law. And an extra V before the abbreviation is further guarantee that laws meant for ordinary mortal do not apply to them. They are guilty of a serious crime against the public of course, but equally guilty are the government and other official agencies that look the other way when the VVIPs commit such gross irregularities.

Dr. Jagjit Singh Chohan has been handed over travel documents in the evening of June 21, 2001 to enable him to visit India.

Indian Government in 1981 had cancelled the passport of Dr. Jagjit Singh Chohan in view of his alleged anti-national activities as the founder of Council of Khalistan. Dr. Chohan has been striving for the restoration of his passport to come back to India and has been fighting a legal battle for this for the past more than two decades. It was only on May 29 that on his writ petition the Punjab and Haryana High Court directed the Indian Government to provide necessary travel documents to him within one month to enable him to visit India. [Tribune. June 23, 2001: 1]

Dr. Jagjit Chohan, top Khalistan ideologue, arrived in New Delhi on June 26, 2001 night.

Dr. Chohan, a medical graduate, was first elected to the Punjab Vidhan Sabha from Tanda as a candidate of the Republican Party of India in 1967 and became a Deputy Speaker. During the Chief Ministership of Lachchman Singh, Dr. Chohan became Finance Minister of Punjab. In 1969, he lost the Assembly election, and in 1970 he moved to U.K. In 1977, at a public rally at Tanda he raised the demand for Khalistan. At that time too Prakash Singh Badal was the Punjab Chief Minister. He floated Akali Dal (Revolutionary) party and installed radio transmission in Golden Temple while in India. When Congress Party came to power in 1980, he ran to England. It is said that Dr. Chohan was the first who had mustered support for Sant Jarnail Singh Bhinderwale from Pakistan. During the 1971 Indo-Pak war, Dr. Chohan was shown on Pakistan Television receiving keys of Gurudwara Nankana Sahib from the then military ruler. After the electoral rout of Congress at Centre in 1977, Dr. Chohan returned to India. In 1980 he returned to England and there he spearheaded the Khalistani propaganda after becoming the Chairman of the National Council of Khalistan (NCK). There were cases of sedition against Dr. Chohan when he pronounced Khalistan, issued its currency, issued passports, and regularly published literature in support of his self-styled kingdom in exile!

As Chairman of the NCK, he had Balbir Singh Sandhu, now camping in Pakistan, as the General Secretary of NCK. Dr. Chohan is considered as the political godfather of Wassan Singh Zaffarwal, self-styled Chief of Khalistan Commando Force. It is said that Dr. Chohan had sent his nephew, Iqbal Singh to facilitate the smooth return of Zaffarwal. BJP MLA, Laxmi Kanta Chawla, has strongly criticized the entry of Dr. Chohan to India.

Mike Denness, the 61-year old former England cricket captain created history by suspending Sehwag from one match, punishing Sachin Tendulkar for ball-tampering and four other Indian cricketers for appealing in ungentlemanly fashion. Jagmohan Dalmiya did not take this lying down and tilted at the ICC, and threatened that India would withdraw from South Africa, England. Like all adept batsmen, Dalmiya is a master of timing. He used the public outrage against Mike Denness' punishment of Sachin Tendulkar for ball tampering to drap himself in the national flag. He took on the old fogeys at Lord's, practically split world cricket into two, threatened to walk out of a promised fourth Test in England next Summer.

In 2000, hemmed in by television rights scandals, the match fixing drama, he gave up his job as International Cricket Council President in less than pleasant circumstances. Devyani

Devyani Rana, supposedly is the root cause behind Crown-Prince of Nepal Dipendra's mindless act of violence in killing his father King Birendra, mother Queen Aishwarya and other members of his family on May 31, 2001. Whereas Dipendra wanted to marry Devyani, his parents (some say his mother) and his grandmother were against it. He was asked on that fateful evening to choose between Devyani and the future crown. Heated exchange, it is said, followed and the Prince left for his room. He, after sometime, in army uniform with Uzi rifle and a pistol charged into the dining room and shot down everyone. The King and all in the immediate line of succession to him succumbed to the injuries immediately, or in the next couple of days.

Born in 1972, Devyani studied in Mayo College, Ajmer and Lady Shriram College, Delhi where she completed her graduation in 1993. She later did her masters in Political Science from Kathmandu and is currently pursuing her doctorate.

Devyani is the younger of Usharaje Scindia and Pashupati Shumsher Jang Bahadur Rana's two daughters. She is grand daughter of late Rajmata Vijayaraje Scindia and niece of former Congress leader late Madhavrao Scindia.

Devyani reportedly met crown prince Dipendra in London a decade ago and their romance blossomed over the years. Her family was keen to see her married into the Nepalese royal family, but wanted to ensure that prince's mother too agreed to the match.

Two hours after the incident, Devyani boarded a flight to Delhi. And two days later, to escape the media's glare, she left for her sister Urvashi's home in Moscow. [Devyani keeping a low profile. Tribune. June 10, 2001: 13]

Dwivedi was the AICC general secretary during PV Narasimha Rao's premiership and had quit the party in a blaze of controversy, objecting to party president Sonia Gandhi's foreign origin.

Dwivedi was all-humality on rejoining the party, saying it was a mistake on his part to have raised the issue and that he regretted having done so. While admitting that it was also a "mistake and error of judgment" he committed having joined the Sharad Pawar-led Nationalist Congress Party. Dwivedi said the issue of Sonia's foreign origin was a "dead issue". He also explained that he had dissociated himself from the controversy and had tried to persuade the NCP to give the demand up but with little success.

"The issue is un-Indian and unconstitutional," he said and accused his former colleagues of indulging in "politics of vendetta' against Sonia Gandhi.

Launching a blistering attack in the Lok Sabha on November 20, 2001 on Prime Minister Vajpayee for reinducting George Fernandes as Defence Minister despite the Tehelka probe continuing, an agitated opposition sought an immediate explanation from the PM and demanded removal of the Minister.

Turning the heat on the PM, angry members from the Congress, Left parties, the Samajwadi Party and the RJD and former PM Chandra Shekhar alleged that by giving a clean chit to Fernandes, Vajpayee had sought to influence the outcome of the Venkataswami Commission, inquiring into the Tehelka expose.

"The PM owes an explanation to members as he is accountable to Parliament," Congress chief whip Priya Ranjan Dasmunshi demanded while raising the issue during Zero Hour. Protesting over the silence of the Government, these members staged a noisy walkout.

Countering the opposition charge, Parliamentary Affairs Minister Pramod Mahajan, shortly after the walkout, rejected the demand for an explanation by the PM and removal of Fernandes. "Fernandes is totally innocent," Mahajan said contending that the Commission has not till now leveled any charge directly or indirectly against him.

CPM leader Somnath Chatterjee said Fernandes was reinducted at a time when a summon had been issued to him by the Commission to appear before it. Stating that Fernandes was under judicial scrutiny, Chatterjee asked how could the PM say that there was no evidence against him.

In Rajya Sabha, External Affairs Minister Jaswant Singh introduced Fernandes to members on Tuesday amidst cries of "shame, shame" from the opposition MPs. Raising the matter during question hour, Congress member Suresh Pachauri sought Chairman Krishan Kant's intervention in the matter saying the appointment of Fernandes as Defence Minister could affect the progress of the probe. Dismissing Pachauri's claim, Kant said Union Ministers are appointed by the President on the advice of the PM.

Ghalib was born in Agra on December 27, 1797. At the age of 13, he was married to Umrao Beghum, aged 12, distantly related to the ruling family of Loharu. At the age of 19 he shifted to Delhi. During his early life he was quite well off and he lived in style. He was tall and handsome youngman who loved women, wine and gambling. Of course he was a poet of unusual talents and was much sought after. Since Ghalib lived beyond his means he was in dire straits and fell heavily in debt. He spent three months in jail on the charge of gambling. When Ghalib was reduced to beggary, he undertook a long and tedius journey to Calcutta to plead with English rulers to restore his pension.

Ghalib loved India and its changing seasons, he loved every place he happened to visit. He was particularly enamoured by Benaras and its beautiful women.

Ghalib's last years were less stressed as he received monetary help from friends and the Nawab of Rampur. This notwithstanding, his health was deteriorating. His wife died in February 1868, and a year after Ghalib died on February 15, 1869.

Ms. K.R. Gowri (83) has achieved the distinction of being the "grand dame" of the 11th Kerala Assembly. She was a member of the first EMS govt. in Kerala.

Gowri Amma, as she is affectionately called by her admirers in Aroor, has been in the electoral area since 1948. She has lost only twice – in 1948 during her maiden attempt and in 1977 in the election immediately after Emergency. She retained her Aroor seat this time trouncing her opponent, K.V. Devadas of CPM by over 12,000 votes.

A hardcore Marxist right from her college days, many had written off her political career when she was thrown out from CPM. But Gowri proved her opponents wrong by coming out triumphant in 1996 and 2001. [Tribune. May 15, 2001: 8]

Gurm, H.S. (Dr.)

The Punjab & Haryana High Court, on July 31, 2001 issued a notice to Dr. H.S. Gurm, Vice-Chancellor, Punjab Technical University, Jalandhar, for August 21 on a petition that seeks registration of a case against him for alleged sexual harassment. [Notice issued to PTU VC in sexual harassment case. Times of India. August 1, 2001: 1]

The Punjab Government has ordered an inquiry against the Vice-Chancellor of the Punjab Technical University (PTU), Dr. H.S. Gurm for various charges. The charges include harassment to certain employees, awarding contract for conducting of the post-graduate diploma course (PGDC) in e-commerce and software to a private company without following the norms, resulting in financial loss to the university, and some appointments without applications.

However, Dr. Gurm told that he had no information about any such inquiry. At the same time he denied all charges being levelled against him.

The three main charges include the harassment of certain employees, who had complained to the National Commission for Women and had submitted a copy to the MLA, Prof. Laxmi Kanta Chawla. Mrs. Chawla had taken up the matter with the Chief Minister, who ordered an inquiry at her instance. Dr. Gurm said it was unfortunate that he had to face such allegations. He claimed, "My status and dignity can be confirmed from anyone in the town", adding that such allegations could be easily made.

The second charge is that he had awarded a contract to Aptech for the PGDC without inviting tenders. Under the terms and conditions of the contract all infrastructure for running the course at five centres in Ludhiana only was to be provided by the PTU. The fee per candidate was fixed at Rs.20,000. Of this, the university would get 30 per cent, while Aptech would get 70 per cent. It had only to provide three faculty members for each of the five institutes. The objections raised included as to why only Ludhiana was chosen for the course and not other cities in the state. Besides, no tenders were invited.

However, Dr. Gurm said the process of awarding the contract had already been started before he took over. Although he was there when the MOU was signed, but the whole issue had already been finalized.

The third major charge is that he had made some appointments in the university without giving advertisements in newspapers and inviting applications. The Chairman of the Governing Body of the University on December 14 had written to the VC asking him to cancel these appointments as they were reported to be illegal. The appointments made were that of two directors and three deputy and assistant registrars.

Dr. Gurm said he did not want to comment on the letter as it was a confidential matter, but asserted that as a VC he had certain powers, which he had used. He pointed out that he had to run the university for which appointments had to be made. He claimed that since people were not available he did not think it necessary to issue advertisements and ask for applications. He asserted that all appointments were made only after verifying the eligibility criteria of the candidates. [Inquiry ordered against PTU VC. Tribune. January 8, 2001: 3]

Jayalalitha, J.

The Supreme Court today directed a Chennai special court to proceed with the trial in the corruption case against AIADMK supremo J. Jayalalitha and cricket board president A.C. Muthiah in the multi-crore Tamil Nadu Industrial Development Corporation (TIDCO) bonds scam.

A Bench comprising Mr. Justice K.T. Thomas and Mr. Justice R.P. Sethi, hearing an appeal filed by the CBI, suspended the Madras High Court order which had stayed the trial proceedings pending an appeal filed by Ms. Jayalalitha.

While issuing notices, the Bench said, "We suspend the Madras High Court order. However, the apex court said the Chennai court would not pronounce its judgement in the case without its prior permission. [SC gives nod to Jaya's trial. Tribune. February 17, 2001: 1]

In an unprecedented and controversial action, AIADMK Supremo Jayaram Jayalalitha was today sworn in as Chief Minister of Tamil Nadu, a day after her party stormed back to power in elections which she was barred from contesting.

The 53-year old stormy petrel of Tamil Nadu politics was back in power within hours of being unanimously elected leader by her party's 132 newly-elected members in the 234-member assembly although her nomination papers in the elections had been rejected in view of her conviction in a corruption case.

Governor Fathima Beevi, former Judge of the Supreme Court, invited Ms. Jayalalitha to form the government shortly after she staked her claim during a meeting between the two at Raj Bhavan.

Out of power for five years, Ms. Jayalalitha lost no time to resume her office, taking oath along with five ministers, all belonging to the AIADMK, even as delirious supporters burst crackers and danced on the streets.

Wearing a dark green sari, Ms. Jayalalitha presented a shawl to the Governor before she administered the oath of office and secrecy to her. [Jaya sworn in CM, Governor goes by people's choice. Tribune. May 15, 2001: 1, 18]

A three-judge bench of the Supreme Court in a significant order on July 20, 2001 admitted a batch of writ petitions challenging the appointment of AIADMK supremo J. Jayalalitha and referred them to a Constitutional Bench of five judges for early disposal in view of the immense constitutional importance of the matter.

Senior advocate K.K. Venugopal is to appear on behalf of Jayalalitha and Attorney General Soli J. Sorabjee on notice from the Court.

AIDADMK chief Jayalalitha was acquitted on December 4, 2001 by Madras High Court in the Tansi Land deal and the Pleasant Stay Hotel cases. This is a major legal battle won by Ms. Jayalalitha. The acquittal clears the ban on her contesting an election – a factor which led to the rejection of four of her nominations on April 24, 2001. She was barred from contesting under the Representation of the People's Act, which disqualifies those sentenced to more than two years' imprisonment. Judgement was pronounced by Justice N. Dinakar, who dismissed the appeals of the prosecution while allowing Jayalalitha's appeals against the convictions. Jayalalitha had to quit the post of Chief Minister following a Supreme Court judgement on September 21, 2001 disqualifying her from appointment.

Kanshi Ram

The organizers of the BSP-sponsored "Saini sammelan", especially Mr. Gurmail Singh Saini, former president of the district unit of the BSP, had to face a lot of embarrassment when the BSP supremo, Mr. Kanshi Ram, while addressing the sammelan at the nearby Langroya village on October 29 with a view to bringing Sainis, one of the most dominating castes in the Nawanshahr Assembly segment, into the party fold, virtually distanced Sainis from the BSP with his utterances.

Mr. Kanshi Ram chided Sainis by branding them as "habitual betrayers" stating that they had betrayed their own Guru. "I have no trust on them and no hope from them. The BSP can form a government in Punjab without them", he said.

The BSP supremo, holding the arm of Mr. Gurmail Singh Saini, who was standing on the stage during the address, held him responsible for ignorance among Sainis about Mahatama Jyotiba Phule. Kapil Dev

The internal inquiry of the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) into the match fixing scandal has exonerated legendary all-rounder Kapil Dev from any wrong doing and closed all the cases pending against him. "The Madhavan Report clearing my name cannot cause me any elation after all that I had to go through," the ace all-rounder told PTI from Scotland on phone.

The former Indian captain and coach, who was accused by team-mate Manoj Prabhakar of offering Rs.25 lakh to under perform in a Test in Sri Lanka in 1994, wept bitterly during a BBC TV interview by Karan Thapar and subsequently severed all connections with cricket.

Indian cricketing icon and speedster Kapil Dev is all set to return to cricket from his self-imposed exile by taking up the assignment of coaching the country's pacers for the World Cup 2003. After the betting scandal that took Indian cricket by storm, Kapil Dev had said he would not return to cricket as though it had given him much but taken a lot more. Board of Control for Cricket in India President Jagmohan Dalmiya said: His first love has been cricket always. When he was convinced that his country needed him, he decided to put aside his grievances.

- Kapil to train pacers for World Cup. Tribune. November 20, 2001: 17.
- Kapil ends exile, to train pacers. Times of India. November 20, 2001: 13.

After nearly 18 months of self-imposed "sanyaas" from the cricket, Kapil Dev, who along with Sunil Gavaskar, should be among the leading lights in international cricket of all times, has decided to return to his "first love."

When the match-fixing scandal rocked international as well as Indian cricket, Kapil, who was then the coach of the Indian cricket squad, too had been drawn into the quagmire. He was named as one of the "match fixers" and the CBI had raided his house and business premises. All this had a very profound impact on the best all-rounder the game has ever produced. He quit his job as the coach, wept openly in front of TV cameras and vowed that he would have nothing to do with the game which had given him so much. Subsequently, he was cleared of all charges of match-fixing but he steadfastly struck to his stand of having "nothing to do with cricket".

It was on November 2, 1994, that Kapil Dev, who had played 131 Test matches and 220 one-day internationals, bid farewell to the game. In Test cricket he had scored 5, 248 runs with the help of eight centuries and 27 half-centuries and had claimed 424 wickets. (When he hung up his boots Kapil was the highest wicket taker in Test cricket. This record was later overtaken by West Indian Courtney Walsh). His record in one-day was equally impressive – 3783 runs, 253 wickets. But more than the record he will always be remembered for his heroics in the 1983 World Cup when he took India to the pinnacle of glory by his own personal example. Seldom in Indian cricket has a Captain done so much for the team.

His decision to renew his ties with cricket will certainly do a world of good to Indian cricket. He has volunteered his services to train the fast bowlers for the 2003 World Cup to be held in South Africa, but in the same breath he has announced that there was no question of coaching the Indian team (so New Zealander John Wright can breath a little easy).

Indian cricket should benefit from Kapil Dev. But for his turnaround all credit should be given to the new BCCI President, Mr. Jagmohan Dalmiya, who could convince him to "return to cricket". During his forced hibernation from cricket, Kapil was turning out to become a more than average golfer. Cricket's gain could well be golf's loss! [Kapil back to his first love. Tribune. Will Kiran Karnik succeed? is the question being asked. The software industry is not so much in limelight. This is a disadvantage to Karnik. And everybody would expect Karnik to recreate the hype his predecessor Dewang Mehta created about the software industry. It will be a difficult task. Another difficulty is that Nasscom has no organization. It has been a one-man show. Koshiyari, Bhagat Singh

Bhagat Singh Koshiyari was sworn in as the Chief Minister of Uttaranchal on October 30, 2001. Koshiyari is a journalist-turned politician and a seasoned party leader with an RSS background. Fondly called as Bhagat da, he had been a pracharak of the RSS for several years. Born in Mahargari village of Bageshwar district, Koshiyari, a bachelor, began his political career as a student leader in Almora College in 1961-62 at the age of 19. After completing his post-graduation in English literature from Agra University in 1964, he served as a lecturer for a year at Rampur Inter College in Etah district. He quit his job to become a journalist and started a Hindi weekly, Parvatiya Piyush from Pithoragarh. Mr. Koshiyari has authored several books in Hindi – "Uttaranchal Pradesh Kyon", "Uttaranchal Pradesh Sangharsh aur Samadhan", etc. – and some of these have won him accolades.

He also actively participated in the statehood movement of the former hilly areas of the UP and held the post of General Secretary of the BJP's Uttaranchal unit from 1988 to 1993. Before the creation of the new state he was the president of the BJP unit of Uttaranchal. He was nominated to the Uttar Pradesh Legislative Council in 1997 and renominated in 1999. For the first time he became Power Minister in the Nityanand Swami government on November 11 last year.

New Chief Minister of Uttaranchal, Bhagat Singh Koshiyari, is indeed a dark horse. A few outside Uttar Pradesh have heard his name till the BJP's Central leadership sprang a surprise by pitch forking him to the top post in the one-year-old hill state. Holding power portfolio in the preceding Nityanand Swami Ministry, Koshiyari is known to be a staunch RSS man, brought up in the strict discipline of the organization. In keeping with the RSS tradition, he has not married and devoted long years of his life in the service of the "Sangh".

Except one year in the Swami government, he has no administrative experience nor did he ever contest an election. He was a member of the U.P. Legislative Council when the most populous state of the union was split and Uttaranchal carved out; he was inducted in the first government of the hill state and as important portfolios as power, irrigation and law were allocated to him. Even though lacking in experience in administration, his record as power minister has been impressive.

Known to be a man of simple life style, Koshiyari has been basically a man of the organization and played an important role in building up the BJP in the hill region of U.P., which a year back became the state of Uttaranchal. He was also among the front ranking leaders in the agitation for carving out the separate hill state. A "Pahari" (hailing from hills) in true sense, many call him son of mountains. Born in Almora when the Quit India movement was gathering momentum in 1942, he completed his pre-university education in his native town and obtained Master's degree in English Literature from the Agra University. He briefly took a job as teacher but soon resigned to become a full time RSS activist. Since then, there is no looking back for him. While working with the RSS, he published and edited a weekly, known as "Parvatiya Piyush" (flower of the mountain).

Exactly a year back when the BJP's high command picked up Nityanand Swami to head the first government of the hill state, Koshiyari and his supporters raised the banner of revolt. Even though he proposed last year Swami's name for the leadership of Uttaranchal BJP Legislature Party, ostensibly, following pressure of the party's High Command, Koshiyari and two other senior leaders, Ramesh Pokhriyal and Narain Ram Das declined to join the ministry.

Koshiyari was, in fact, a serious contender for the top post, claiming that the honour to become the first C.M. of the hill state should go to a "son of the soil" (a pahari) and he was the genuine one belonging to Kumaon region. His contention was that Swami does not belong to hills and his ancestors were migrants from Haryana. Koshiyari was virtually forced to withdraw from the contest and compelled to propose the name of Swami much against his conscience.

The simmering discontent, however, burst into open with Koshiyari's supporters going on rampage, smashing the entire stage soon after the swearing-in ceremony of Swami as the C.M. They were protesting against selection of what they then called "a non-pahari" to head the government. Swami hit back asserting: "I am the biggest Pahari in the new state. I have been living here for 40 years". Later, Koshiyari was prevailed upon by the central leadership to take oath as a cabinet minister in the Swami government but the discontent continued to brew.

Exactly a year after the BJP's High Command had to eat humble pie; compelled to replace Swami by Koshiyari. Supporters of the new C.M. say he has got his due. Koshiyari, however, faces an uphill task; he will have to lead the party to polls in four months time. One wonders if he will be able to live upto the expectations of the central leadership. Change of guard in the hill state is said to be part of a new experiment by the BJP. They have brought in committed RSS men – Rajnath Singh in U.P. and recently Narendra Modi in Guajrat – as part of the new strategy. While Rajnath Singh got reasonable time to improve the saging morale of the party in U.P., time for Koshiyari is running out fast.

True, Koshiyari, like his predecessor, does not suffer from "outside tag". While Swami had a brief stint in the Congress, the new Chief Minister is an old hand in "saffron circle" and counted among the RSS ideologue. Nevertheless, it is widely felt that his saffron background may not take him far in the first-ever assembly elections in the hill state. Added to that, he is also known to be short tempered and poor in public relations. There are no qualifications for a leader who is supported to lead his party in the battle at the hustings. When Milkha reached the top of the flame stand at 6:15 p.m., he seemed momentarily overwhelmed by the cheering. As he raised both hands to acknowledge the applause, the gas was released into the burners. Milkha never had the time to lower the torch on the burners for the flame leapt up to his hand and also enveloped a part of the stand.

Despite his age, the Flying Sikh showed quick reflexes and ran down the stairs. People helped him beat out the flames licking him. However, it took the organizers over five minutes to extinguish the fire around the pedestal. Milkha later told reporters that he was safe. He registered his protest with the organising committee and left the venue in a huff. S.K. Wassan, assistant manager with the Indian Oil Corporation, which has sponsored the flame for 13 days, explained the co-ordination for lighting the flame was maintained through mobile phones. Misra, Someshwar

The arrest of Mr. Someshwar Misra, Chief Excise Commissioner (Delhi Zone) by the CBI allegedly for accepting a bribe of Rs.10 lakh should not be treated as a sensational development. Yes, it is part of the routine the CBI has perfected for staying in the lime-light as a prime agency engaged in the daunting task of exposing corruption in high places. The owner of the Noida-based Flex Industries, Mr. Ashok Chaturvedi too was taken into custody for allegedly having committed the offence of offering the bribe. The proof of the pudding is in the eating. Will the case result in the conviction of the well-connected suspects? The Misra-Chaturvedi case is just one of the many high-profile ones that the CBI and other agencies have investigated and cornered ill-deserved media attention. The rate of conviction should serve as the only yardstick of the efficiency or lack of it of the CBI that has even appointed an official spokesman for briefing the media about the cases it claims to have cracked. Without meaning to be unduly critical of the methods adopted by the investigating agencies, it must be pointed out that at some stage political pressure is brought upon them for leaving loopholes in the cases involving senior politicians, bureaucrats and influential businessmen.

According to media reports Mr. Chaturvedi started his career in Kanpur as an ordinary salesman. Today his guest list reads like a veritable who is who from the world of media, civil service, politics and entertainment. Only recently he had thrown a party in honour of Shah Rukh Khan. After reading the full account of the influence that the Misra-Chaturvedi combine exercise in the corridors of power even a first grade school kid would not go wrong in predicting the outcome of the case when it comes up for trial. The bitter truth is that society as such has to become more assertive and demanding for making the fight against corruption at any level really effective. Neither the setting up of a Vigilance Commission headed by the voluble Mr. N. Vittal nor the promises made by the political leadership can really deliver so long as the promise of transparency in public dealings is not fulfilled. As far as the public perception is concerned as of today no one in positions of power is perceived to be clean. Most people see the campaign against corruption as a charade in which the corrupt are expected to expose the corrupt. [Another case of corruption. Tribune. November 10, 2001: 12]

Mohan Lal (Master)

Punjabi University Vice-Chancellor, Dr. Jasbir Singh Ahluwalia, on May 8, 2001 at Patiala, served a show-cause notice on Higher Education Minister Master Mohan Lal, asking why he should not be disqualified from conducting doctoral research as he had failed to explain his position regarding the authenticity of the synopsis, progress reports and bibliography submitted by him while working on his Ph.D. thesis in the University, despite having been given two opportunities.

The Vice-Chancellor and the minister have been embroiled in a bitter controversy after the minister ordered an inquiry against the former on the basis of a memorandum submitted by the Punjabi University Teachers Association (PUTA).

The Vice-Chancellor, on the basis of a memorandum by another group of teachers, asked the minister to reply to allegations that his synopsis and bibliography had been ghost written. The minister was enrolled for Ph.D. in the university under the guidance of the Vice-Chancellor himself after the Academic Council waived off eligibility conditions in his case.

Meanwhile, the PUTA today expressed satisfaction on the process of inquiry against the Vice-Chancellor, saying immediate action should be taken against him following the announcement of the inquiry findings by the minister yesterday. A few teachers' organizations have, however, castigated the minister for making such "utterances" and requested the Chief Minister to restrain him.

The Vice-Chancellor's show-cause notice to Master Mohan Lal reads: "I further order that if Master Mohan Lal desires and requests for an independent probe into the allegations, particularly on the authenticity of the synopsis and other material submitted by him, a high-level inquiry committee would be constituted comprising an academician, a retired judge of the High Court, and a serving or retired Vice-Chancellor of a university to be nominated by the Association of Indian Universities, New Delhi."

The Vice-Chancellor said in the event of no reply or an unsatisfactory one from the minister, further action towards his disqualification would be considered and taken without any further notice. The minister has been asked to reply to the notice by May 17.

Giving background of the case, Dr. Ahluwalia said the minister had "arm-twisted" the university management to register him for Ph.D. The minister had turned his doctoral research into a farce, insisting that his signatures on the periodical report be obtained from him at Chandigarh. Dr. Ahluwalia said he had objected to the same. [VC issues notice to minister. Tribune. May 9, 2001: 3]

Four members of the Board of Post-Graduate Studies and Research in the faculty of Languages of Punjabi University on May 30, 2001 at Patiala recorded their dissent on a resolution moved by the Vice-Chancellor authorizing him to take any action, including disqualifying Higher Education Minister Mohan Lal from registering himself for Ph.D. in the institution in future. At long last the Swedish Academy had to give the Prize to V.S. Naipaul. Yes, Naipaul has been traveling through the suppressed histories of 'half-made societies' translating his discoveries into genre-defying literature, a part of which an unsentimental memorial service to his ancestral home – India. Naipaul's civilizational Brahminism was the thing that earned him the Nobel. His criticism of Islam too was not born out of hate, it was a rejoinder to suppressed histories. Narayan, R.K.

R.K. Narayan, the renowned novelist who put Indian fiction writing in English on the world map, passed away at the age of 95 in Chennai on May 13, 2001, following cardio-respiratory failure.

The celebrated novelist, brother of the equally talented cartoonist, R.K. Laxman, penned as many as 34 novels, including My Days, Swami and Friends, The Guide, Bachelor of Arts, Malgudi Days, The Vendor of Sweets, The Dark Room. Even as late as 1993, he wrote Grand Mother's Tales and Salt and Sawdust at the ripe age of 87.

A fellow of the Royal Society of Literature, (which conferred A.C. Bensen Award on him) and an honorary member of the American Academy and Institute of Arts and Letters, R.K. Narayan was nominated to Rajya Sabha in 1989 and was decorated with Padma Vibhushan in 2000.

Most of the condolence messages carried in the newspapers on the death of literary wizard R.K. Narayan have a common point: India has lost one of the finest authors it has produced. The contented genius in Narayan must be laughing at this at his final resting place. He walked on this land for 95 years—only five years short of a century—and contributed immensely to its literary growth with the unusual power of his pen. So much so that any description of literary India will be incomplete without a prominent mention of the creator of 'Malgudi Days'. Of course, he is no longer in our midst in his physical form, one can always see him through his master pieces like "The Guide", "The Man-eater of Malgudi", "The World of Swami" and "The English Teacher". He had become a legend within a few years of his literary journey by bringing Indian fiction writing in English on to the world's literary map when he had still many years left to do the job of story-telling in his own inimitable style peppered with modest humour. He was a class by himself, as he preferred to weave his wordy fabric the way it could reflect the Indian ethos, the reality in this part of the world, and not how the West wanted it. yet today he has as many admirers in the developed world as there are in the land of his birth.

He was a man of conviction and did not bother about rewards. Two incidents can be given in support of this argument. One, he could not score enough marks in the college admission test in his favourite subject, English. Yet he did not lose heart and secured entry into the portals of the college of his choice in Mysore, from where he did his graduation. Two, he shifted from journalism to fiction writing at a time when no one could think of making one's ends meet in the difficult sea of words. Only the really talented could think of surviving its tidal wave. Narayan charted that sea effortlessly like a great navigator. Nothing could frighten him, not even the initial rejection of the manuscript of some of his admired works. One of the honours that came his way was the membership of the Rajya Sabha. He used it for a cause so dear to him: to reduce the burden on the back of school children. He continued his fight against heavy schoolbags, which, he was convinced, could never excite the minds or imaginations of little ones. He died without achieving success in this area. Obviously, the school children will miss him more than the millions of his admirers the world over. [Death of literary genius. Tribune. May 15, 2001: 10]

R.K. Narayan, 95, died on May 13, 2001. Under Malgudi Man heading the India Today writes: Malgudi was the mythical fiefdom from where R.K. Narayan ruled the Indo-Anglian literary scape. The town that figures in his writings and featured a simple, provincial life summed up his work – simple and traditional much like the man himself. Recipient of the Padma Bhushan and a Rajya Sabha member, he has 14 novels, novellas and short stories to his credit, with much of his work translated into several languages. After initial literary rejections, he was mentored by Graham Greene and rose to fame despite his ironical disdain for academics. [The year's passages. India Today. December 31, 2001: 170]

Panja, Ajit Kumar

When Trinamool Congress supremo, Mamata Banerjee insulted her party colleague Ajit Kumar Panja, then Union Minister of State for External Affairs, forcing him to part company with her, it was generally believed that the second most important leader of the four-year old regional political organization would not survive the grievous blow he had received. But within a few days he has proved the sceptics wrong. He has acquired enough skill to sail to safety when his ship is under attack.

Being an expert theatre artist, he dramatized how Ms. Banerjee had ill-treated him in the presence of the Trinamool rank and file and succeeded in winning sympathies within the organization from which he had been virtually thrown out. Soon party MP Nitish Sengupta came to his side. Mr. Sengupta is a former bureaucrat. It is believed that another bureaucrat-turned-politician and Trinamool member of the Lok Sabha, Mr. Bikram Sarkar, is anxiously waiting for the election results to jump over to Mr. Panja's bandwagon. That will mean a group of three MPs deserting the Trinamool Congress, having a strength of nine in the Lok Sabha. A clear split to save them from the anti-defection law.

Mr. Panja lost his ministerial position after Ms. Banerjee withdrew her party's support to the NDA government. But he has been maintaining that he is very much part of the BJP-led coalition at the Centre. His stand has earned him a place in the good books of Prime Minister Atal Behari Vajpayee. During the election campaign in West Bengal he shared dais with Mr. Vajpayee and worked for the success of NDA candidates, giving a tough time to Ms. Banerjee.

Despite his unceremonious removal from the Trinamool Congress, which he built brick by brick with Ms. Banerjee, Mr. Panja is an upbeat. [Panja's survival strategy. Tribune. May 10, 2001: 10]

Phoolan Devi

Smajwadi Party MP and former 'bandit queen' Phoolan Devi was shot dead on July 25, 2001 at about 1:30 p.m. outside her official Ashoka Road residence in New Delhi by three unidentified assailants. She was MP from Mirzapur in U.P. Her Personal Security Officer, though injured, returned the fire, but assailants managed to escape.

The 39-year old Phoolan Devi belonged to Gurhaka Purva, a small village on the banks of the Yamuna. With 48 criminal cases, including 22 murders against her, Phoolan tried hard to be a janta ki sevaka. But her foray into politics was toothless and uneventful. Important landmarks in her life were as follows. On February 14, 1981 she gunned down 20 upper caste Thakurs in Behmai village in U.P., getting instant notoriety. She was then a bandit, untamed, aggressive and wild. The caste-wars and gender exploitation had pushed her in this life. In 1983 she surrendered before the M.P. Chief Minister and was sent to Gwalior jail. In 1994 she entered politics with the backing of then U.P. Chief Minister Mulayam Singh Yadav who withdrew all the criminal cases pending against Phoolan Devi. In 1996 she was formally inducted into the Samajwadi Party and as the nominee of this Party contested for the Bhadohi seat in general elections.

The assailants who had been waiting near the gate to Phoolan Devi's residence opened fire on her and her PSO, when she returned from Lok Sabha for lunch. They walked a short distance and got into their waiting green Maruti car. The killers abandoned the car at a short distance. From there they escaped in a waiting three-wheeler leaving behind their weapons and their personal articles.

Rajendra Singh

Rajendra Singh, the Water Man, who heads the NGO Tarun Bharat Sangh (TBS) involved in watershed management projects in Alwar district has been given the Ramon Magsaysay Award 2001 on July 30, 2001.

The Ruparel river's catchment area is three km from Thanaghazi where TBS build a Dam. This dam has 25 feet of water in it now. The dam has a channel at a height of 30 feet for evicting water.

The Award has come as an embarrassment to the State Government of Rajasthan which had been threatening to demolish an earthen dam built by the TBS at Lawa Ka Bas through Sharamdan, claiming that it posed a danger to several villages. A notice has already been served on Rajendra Singh under the drainage Act. The dam in question has been considered as dangerous by the State Govt., and Singh has been accused of stopping the natural flow of water and diverting it to the dam as also of depriving Bharatpur district of its share of water from Ruparel. Scindia, Madhavarao

Congress leader and former Union Minister and scion of Gwalior royal family, Madhavarao Scindia along with seven others died when the private plane carrying them crashed in a paddy field near Motta Railway Station in Mainpuri district on September 30, 2001. The 10-seater VT-6FF plane belonging to Jindal Group caught fire after it nose-dived into a field. Scindia was scheduled to attend a public meeting in Kanpur in the afternoon of that day. The ill-fated plane had left New Delhi at 12.49 p.m. and was to reach Kanpur at 1:50 p.m. However, it lost contact with the Lucknow Air Traffic Control at 1:30 p.m.

Deputy Leader of the Congress in the Lok Sabha Madhavrao Scindia, who died in a plane crash on September 30, 2001, was a suave and articulate face of the Congress, different from the rustic, pot-bellied image of a politician. Scion of the royal family of Gwalior, Mr. Scindia, (56), has left a mark in all fields he served, including politics, government and cricket administration.

Having never lost a parliamentary election, Mr. Scindia began his political career with support from the Jan Sangh but drifted from it later to join the Congress. He successfully contested his first Lok Sabha elections from Guna in 1971 as an independent with the backing of the Sangh.

Born on March 10, 1945 in Mumbai, Mr. Scindia had politics in his blood, being the son of late Rajmata Vijayraje Scindia, who died early this year. But he charted a political course starkly different from his mother's saffron path.

Mr. Scindia lost his father at an early age and the dominant influence in his formative years was that of his mother.

Mr. Scindia was rated as a prime ministerial candidate along with leaders like Manmohan Singh before the 1999 Lok Sabha elections in the aftermath of controversy over Sonia Gandhi's foreign origin.

He not only had distinction of winning nine times as a Lok Sabha member but registered the proudest moment of his career defeating Atal Behari Vajpayee by over two lakh votes in 1984 in Gwalior.

Mr. Scindia's political graph in the Congress soared following his handling of the key Railway portfolio in Rajiv Gandhi government (1984-89). It was during his time that computerized railway reservation was introduced.

Schooled in Gwalior, Scindia obtained his Master of Arts degree from Oxford University before taking a plunge into electoral politics.

Mr. Scindia resigned as Civil Aviation Minister taking moral responsibility following a crash of a leased Uzbek TU-154 plane in Delhi in 1993. He returned to the government two years later.

In January 1996, Mr. Scindia faced the biggest challenge of his political career when the Jain hawala scandal broke out which soon saw his exit from the government. He floated his outfit the "Madhya Pradesh Vikas Congress" after he was denied ticket for 1996 Lok Sabha polls. Scindia won the elections as MPVC candidate from Gwalior. Scindia returned to the Congress when Mr. Narasimha Rao resigned and Mr. Sitaram Kesari became the party president.

Madhavrao Scindia, 56, died on September 30, 2001 in an air crash in Uttar Pradesh near Kanpur writes the India Today and remembers him under Gentle Prince as: Forever the kin who never did rule. A political career that kicked off in 1971 in the Jan Sangh crashed abruptly just before a Congress rally. Scion of the erstwhile royal family of Gwalior and for years a potential prime minister. Scindia cut his teeth as Railway Minister under Rajiv Gandhi. He was in P.V. Narasimha Rao's ministry too, before the hawala intrigue. Shahabuddin, Mohammed

Siwan M.P. Mohammed Shahabuddin has been the centre of a long drawn controversy involving former Chief Minister of Bihar, Laloo Prasad Yadav and Siwan District Police. Criminals turned politicians take shelter under religion when they are in a tight corner, and their community comes to their rescue irrespective of their shaddy character and unlawful activities. Politician friends also help such elements..

Siwan MP Shahabbuddin's gun law makes the local cops desperate and daring enough to defy it. He rules the district with an iron hand. Though accused in as many as 30 criminal cases, his word is the law and anyone who dares to defy him is met with threats and even death. For the last 10 years this situation has been continuing. In the last week of March he was challenged by the local police in his own den, resulting in a 6-hour long gun battle which left 14, including two policemen dead. An AK-47 rifle, 2 granedes, two 9 mm pistols and ammunition were recovered from Shahabuddin's house. Initially RJD President, Laloo Prasad Yadav, didn't support him, but when Shahabbudin switched his loyalty to the dissident camp led by Ranjan Prasad Yadav, Laloo changed his stand. Superintendent of Police B.S. Meena who had led the raid on MP's house was transferred and the MP was supported so as to pacify him. Unfortunately, both the opposition and RJD were vying with each other to support and pacify Shahabbudin, after the battle. Everybody in power ignored the statement of MP against the SP, B.S. Meena, who led the police raid, on his house: "I will kill him even if I have to chase him to Rajasthan. No one can save him now." His long criminal career notwithstanding, strangely enough he is much wanted man by politicians, even though intelligence agencies talk of his close links with Dawood Ibrahim and the ISI. Soren, Shibu

The Supreme Court today upheld a Delhi High Court order dismissing a petition by former JMM Member of Parliament Shibu Soren seeking quashing of an FIR lodged by the CBI against him for acquiring assets disproportionate to known sources of his income.

In the impugned order dated January 1,2001, the high court said: "At this stage, we will not like to interfere with the investigation by the CBI".

A Division Bench comprising Mr. Justice G.B. Pattanaik and Mr. Justice U.C. Bannerjee also reiterated the stand taken by the High Court while dismissing the Special Leave Petition (SLP) against the High Court order.

"The lawmakers pounce upon even those who take one rupee bribe. Why should this Court, therefore, at this stage scuttle the investigation in a case of acquiring illegally huge assets," the judges observed.

The Court also turned down the plea of senior counsel P.P. Rao, appearing for Mr. Soren, seeking permission to withdraw the SLP.

While convicting former Prime Minister P.V. Narasimha Rao and others in the JMM bribery case, the special judge expressed the opinion that the apex court judgement, upholding the immunity under Article 105(2) to the bribe takers from prosecution for offences under Section 7 and 13(2) read with Section 13(1)(d) of the PCA and conspiracy for committing the said offences, would not be available for the offence under Section 13(1)(e) of the Act provided its investigations were made out after going into the relevant material and records. Stalin, M.K.

A Chennai court on February 16, 2001 directed the State Vigilance Directorate to probe a private complaint against Chennai Mayor and DMK leader M.K. Stalin alleging amassing of unaccounted wealth by him to the tune of Rs.8 crores since assuming office in 1996. M.K. Stalin is the son of former Chief Minister of Tamil Nadu, M. Karunanidhi. [Probe against Mayor ordered. Tribune. February 17, 2001: 8]

M.K. Stalin, the Mayor of Chennai, has been granted bail by the Session Court of Chennai. In a sever indictment of the prosecution the Court held: "The way in which the complaint has been lodged, FIR registered, and time taken to decide the arrests, without examining witnesses and not interrogating them after their arrest would go to show that the FIR had been lodged with an ulterior motive and meant to put them behind bars immediately." [Stalin granted bail. Tribune. July 7, 2001: 20]

M.K. Stalin, the youngest son of the Tamil Nadu Chief Minister, Mr.M. Karunanidhi, is the future leader of the Dravadian party. His powerful father has groomed him assiduously for years and the 46-year old Stalin now calls the shot in party matters and also wields influence on the State Government.

He played a major role in forging alliances and hammering out seat-sharing arrangements in the just-concluded elections. The DMK's candidates were handpicked by him and most of them owe allegiance to him.

Significantly, poll posters describe him as "the general", implying that he now leads the organisation. Already in the evening of his life, Mr. Karunanidhi has declared that on May 10 he had contested his last election.

In Tamil Nadu nobody doubts that Stalin will don the mantle of his father. He, however, denies that he is the chief ministerial candidate but, adds that the party will "democratically" decide in due course the leadership issue of the legislature party.

In the event of the DMK recapturing power, the transition is likely to be gradual but if Mr. Karunanidhi's party losses, Mr. Stalin will have to face the wrath of his detractors and that includes the Chief Minister's nephew and Union Minister Murasoli Maran.

Nevertheless, Mr. Stalin appears to be formidable, having been commanding the loyalty of the party cadres, who acknowledge him as their "general".

Either way the dynastic succession in the biggest Dravadian party has almost been firmed up and also it has touched off reaction which may grow louder if the DMK is routed in the battle at the husting.

Why has Mr. Karunanidhi chosen his youngest son to step into his shoes? Perhaps Mr. Stalin is smartest of his three sons and has gone through the rough and tumble of politics. He stood by his father like a rock when the DMK Government was dismissed soon after the proclamation of the Emergency. So much so that he was detained under MISA and even tortured.

Barely 24 then, the jail term could not subdue his spirit and, on the contrary, he became more resolute. Mr. Karunanidhi's two other sons rebelled. The eldest, Mr. M.K. Sethu, crossed over to the AIADMK and even campaigned against his father while the second, Mr. M.K. Azhagiri, battled against his father's party from his base in Madurai. The third, Mr. Tamilarasu, is virtually out of politics.

Mr. Azhagiri's clout at the time of the 1998 Parliamentary elections and the subsequent Assembly elections was known to be more than Mr. Stalin's, but he did not inspire the cadres like his younger brother.

Mr. Stalin upstaged Mr. Azhagiri in the family coup and, strangely, he did this with the blessings of Mr. Karunanidhi, who disowned his second son through a statement published in the party's organ "Murasoli".

Mr. Stalin's prestige and entire political career was put at stake only a couple of months back when a city court directed the Tamil Nadu police to probe the allegation against him (now he is Mayor of Chennai) that he had amassed unaccounted wealth since assuming office in 1996.

The Principal Sessions Judge directed the Directorate of Vigilence and Anti-Corruption to conduct the inquiry by an official into the allegation. Mr. Stalin sprang a surprise by appearing before the judge unsummoned and requesting him to order "any suitable" inquiry, contending that if the probe was not instituted he would be denied the opportunity to clear his name.

The charges were subsequently found to be baseless and the judge dismissed the case while showering praise on Mr. Stalin, describing him as "a model first citizen". His comments reportedly were: "Tamil Nadu needs leader like Stalin".

Mr. Stalin's ascendancy in the DMK's hierarchy has been slow but steady. Soon after the Emergency ended, he was elected to the DMK's General Council and within three years – in 1980 – constituted the party's youth wing which enabled him in the coming years to raise an effective cadre committed to him.

Of course, he had the backing of his powerful father and, in the process another bright youth leader, Mr. Y. Gopalaswamy alias Vaiko, quit the DMK to form the MDMK.

A massive conclave of DMK workers was organised by Mr. Stalin in 1997 which was described in political circles as the "coronation ceremony" of Mr. Karunanidhi's son.

Mr. Stalin got a big boost when he was elected Mayor of the Chennai Corporation by a massive margin of over four lakh votes. His landslide victory also marked the gradual replacement of the old generation by the new. As Mayor, he has lauched a project to beautify Chennai. Also, energetic as he is, he has initiated the construction of over a dozen flyovers and makes it a point to make on-the-spot inspection of the progress. Talwandi, Jagdev Singh

The SGPC Chief Jagdev Singh Talwandi declared at Chandigarh on June 25, 2001 that Sant Jarnail Singh Bhinderanwale had been declared a 'Shaheed' by SGPC in 1995 and there was no controversy about it. He made this statement after Giani Joginder Singh Vedanti, Jathedar Akal Takht directed SGPC Chief on June 6, 2001 to set up a committee within 15 days to look into the controversy relating to the Bhinderanwale's death. It may be added that Damdami Taksal had been claiming that Sant Bhindranwale is alive, and hence the controversy. [Bhindranwale declared shaheed in 1995. Tribune. June 26, 2001: 4]

President of Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee (SGPC) Jagdev Singh Talwandi got a respite after the five high priests reserved their decision on the statement issued by him against the Jathedar of Akal Takht Giani Joginder Singh Vedanti on the Bandi Choor Divas (Diwali). They said they would deliberate on this sensitive issue in the near future. However, the recorded cassette of Talwandi's statement was played before other high priests during the meeting.

Talwandi had cirticised Vedanti's working. Going against tradition, he had also issued a message to the panth, a prerogative of Jathedar of Akal Takht. Talwandi's statement had drawn lot of flak form various Sikh bodies. Sources revealed that Vedanti had even made up his minde to summon Talwandi for his statement and belittling the importance of Jathedar of Akal Takht, but Chief Minister Parkash Singh Badal's poor health had prevented him to take any hard stance to avoid causing more problems for Badal.

Tandon, Raveena

Raveena's selection as the Best Actress for her role in Kalpana Lajimi's Daman at the National Film Awards 2000 on March 27, 2001 created a big controversy. Three jury members—film makers Pradip Krishen, Shashi Anand and dancer Madhumita Raut resigned on March 25, 2001 against the selection of Raveena Tandon. Questions were also raised about the composition and credibility of the jury which was allegedly stacked with BJP sympathisers including RSS mouthpiece 'Panchjanya' editor Tarun Vijay, BJP MP Shatrughan Sinha's confidante Shashi Ranjan, BJP Cuttack MLA Nivedita Pradhan and Raveena Tandon's maternal uncle Macmohan. Some disgruntled jury members alleged that Raveena was a hot favourite with the safforn brigade in the jury since she had campaigned for the BJP during the elections. He adds that there is a need for reorientation in the University as students should be prepared not for government jobs but for entrepreneurship. The proposal to honour Tendulkar after he became the first batsman to score 10,000 runs in on-day cricket, was cleared at the MCA's marathon four-hour meeting on Tuesday night which was chaired by vice-president of MCA, Pravin Barve. Barve while making the announcement said, "the Mumbai star who achieved the milestone during the recent home series against Australia and was awarded the prestigious Maharashtra Bhushan Award of the state government would be felicitated by the Association on May 23 at Wankhede Stadium". It's not just the fans of Master Blaster Sachin Tendulkar who are opposed to the decision of match referee Mike Denness hauling him up for ball tampering. Even the cricket fraternity has questioned the fairness of the decisions.

Cricket coach DP Azad says, "There is an important rule of the game which we impart to all the youngsters at the cricket academy; 'keep the seam clean from the mud and grass' and that is what Sachin did. The decision of the match referee is inexplicable. Sachin was just cleaning the seam, not raising it. It's ball tampering only when the seam is raised. Sachin did not violate any rule. He has never been in any controversy in his career till date. All this has been blown out of proportion."

Cricketer Dinesh Mongia was of the opinion: "Since it had been raining and it was cloudy, a lot of mud had accumulated on the ball and there was no way a bowler could bowl without cleaning the ball and that's what Sachin did. The team has been unfairly targeted. No action was taken against Michael Slater of Australia when he hurled abuses at Rahul Dravid or when Glenn McGrath was offensive against Sachin Tendulkar. Why target six players of our country for minor offences? As for Sachin, he would never do such a thing."

The entire episode has been blown out of proportion, says Daljeet Singh, former Ranji Player and chairman of the pitch and ground committee, Punjab Cricket Association. "Players from the subcontinent are always targeted while the Whites are let off easily. Sachin was going by the rules; anyone who sees the video footage can know that he was only cleaning the ball. Even the decision against Virendra Sehwag is too harsh, I know him personally and know that he would never do anything wrong. Our cricket board should take up the matter with the ICC."

Cricketer Yuvraj Singh maintains, "I am absolutely astonished. Sachin has been playing for the past 12 years and has not even been given a warning and then comes in such a bizarre allegation against him. I look up to him and know for sure that he wouldn't do anything to damage the tempo of the game. The world knows that he is a clean player. Even the decisions against the others are inexplicable."

"The ball was in the 19th over," says cricketer Bhupinder Singh Sr., "and didn't need any tampering. Sachin is someone who plays straight and would never do anything to malign his reputation. And he doesn't need to do it. The whole cricketing fraternity is disgusted with the on going proceedings and is awaiting some kind of action against Mike Denness. Basically all this reeks of racism against Asian players, how otherwise can you explain the decision of banning half the team on petty excuses while letting the Shaun Pollocks and Michael Slaters go scot free?" [Decision against Sachin, others, reeks of racism. Times of India. November 22, 2001: 2]

International Cricket Council (ICC) on November 28, 2001 exonerated Sachin Tendulkar of ball-tampering charges saying that he had been guilty of merely not informing the umpires that he was cleaning the ball during the second Test against South Africa. Vajpayee, A.B.

India's PM Atal Bihari Vajpayee has been voted as the Man of the Year in an opinion poll conducted by the Hindustan Times on December 30, 2000. He received 31 per cent of the votes. The poll covered 1,224 respondents in six cities – Delhi, Mumbai, Kolkata, Chennai, Hyderabad and Bangalore.

Vajpayee, as a part of India's Look East' policy was on a week's visit to Vietnam and Indonesia from January 7-13, 2001. [Persons in news. Competition Success Review. February 2001: 147]

Following is the text of the letter which PM Atal Bihari Vajpayee wrote to Pakistan Chief Executive Gen. Pervez Musharraf, inviting him and his wife to visit India.

"Excellency,

India has, through dialogue, consistently endeavoured to build a relationship of durable peace, stability and cooperative friendship with Pakistan. Our common enemy is poverty. For the welfare of our peoples, there is no other recourse but a pursuit of the path of reconciliation, of engaging in productive dialogue, and by building trust and confidence. I invite you to walk this high road with us.

"When I visited Lahore in February in 1999, with the objective of beginning a new chapter in our bilateral relations, I had recorded at the Minar-e-Pakistan that a 'stable, secure and prosperous Pakistan is in India's interest; that remains our conviction.

"We have to pick up the threads again, including renewing the composite dialogue, so that we can put in place a stable structure of cooperation and address all outstanding issues, including J and K.

"I have the pleasure to extend a most cordial invitation to Begum Musharraf and you to visit India at your early convenience.

"Please accept, Excellency, the assurances of my highest consideration.

(A.B. Vajpayee)"

- Text of the letter. Tribune. May 26, 2001: 1.

A.B. Vajpayee, the Prime Minister of India, offered to quit office on July 31, 2001 in view of his inability to have the NDA function in a coherent and disciplined manner. He said: "I am responsible. I cannot manage the NDA. I am also unwell." The immediate provocation for the PM's resignation, BJP MPs say was Shiv Sena MP Sanjay Nirupam's frontal attack in the Rajya Sabha on Monday, the July 30, 2001 on the alleged role of the PMO in the UTI scam. Soon after, senior BJP ministers – L.K. Advani, Murli Manohar Joshi, Jaswant Singh and Pramod Mahajan rushed to Vajpayee and persuaded him to abandon his proposal. It was all over by 11:30 a.m. on July 31, 2001.

There is an editorial in the Times of India on the resignation drama. Besides other things it says… There have been far two many things going wrong with the government, starting with the state of the economy and the long list of financial scams of which US-64 is only the latest. It has also been obvious for some time now that politicians enjoy immunity of the kind not available to ordinary citizens, and this include high-profile businessmen. Governments that quite happily jail a Rajan Pillai or an L.M. Thapar, will themselves be found to be involved in scams without anyone having to take responsibility. And when the pressure grows, one minister or another merely needs to brandish the weapon of resignation to wash off his sins. It is perhaps time those in office thought of the verdict that might await them in the people's court – the highest court of judgment by their own reckoning. [Resigned India. Times of India. August 1, 2001: 10]

Describing the resignation offer as a drama and political stunt, Congress Party spokesman Jaipal Reddy said several facts about intervention of the PMO in regard to investment by the UTI had come to surface since yesterday…Everyone knows that Cyber Space Company promoted by Johri brothers, who are attached to the RSS, was inaugurated by Prime Minister himself [PM's offer political stunt. Tribune. August 1, 2001: 22]

The India Today calls PM Atal Behari Vajpayee a Captive Leader who failed to rein in PMO officials. It further adds: There was no clarity on direction; Vajpayee veered between peacenik and hawk. The write-up on Vajpayee sums up his performance during 2001 as follows:

Cease-fire in Kashmir failed to curtail terrorism. The invitation to President Pervez Musharraf back-fired disastrously and Agra summit turned into a non-event. With Musharraf unrelenting in his Mission Kashmir, Vajpayee's peacenik positioning rebound on him. Agra was a failure of public relations and leadership and was played at BJP National Executive meeting, prompting Vajpayee to offer his resignation on July 31, 2001. Party and Government, however, empahsised his indispensability but he did not address the root of the problem – the lack of direction. India did play its cards during Afghanistan War and was acknowledged a responsible nuclear power, but the Government failed to capitalize on this. POTO became the subject of fierce partisan politics as it was linked to the U.P. elections in 2002. With question marks over integrity and efficiency of the Government, and lack of clarity and sure-footedness of PM Vajpayee, the problems continued. His communication skills were rarely in evidence during 2001, and he could not inspire. It is in this tiredness, India Today concludes, that made India's own war against terror that much less effective. [India Today. December 31, 2001: 35]

Zaffarwal, Wassan Singh

Wassan Singh Zaffarwal, once a dreaded terrorist, and the Chief of the outlawed Khalistan Commando Force (KCF) was arrested by the Punjab Police at Amritsar on April 11, 2001. In the beginning of this month he was sighted at a reception hosted by Amritsar Akali leader Gurpartap Singh Riar. Zaffarwal's arrest is said to be stage-managed. His surrender is said to be worked out by Punjab Minister Sucha Singh Langha, who is Zaffarwal's relation. Punjab Chief Minister Prakash Singh Badal earlier had said that he would not have any talk with terrorists, changed his stance later, welcoming any move by terrorists to surrender and join the mainstream. Akali Dal (A) President Simran Singh Mann and Khalistan idealogue Kanwarpal Singh Dhammi however opposed Zaffarwal's surrender. It should also be noted that during recently held Majitha by-poll, Zaffarwal had issued a written appeal to the voters not to support Congress candidate and instead support the candidate belonging to SAD (Badal) party.

Before joining the terrorist movement, Zaffarwal was an employee of the Dhariwal Woollen Mills. He was initially a part of the Panthic Committee, headed by Dr. Sohan Singh. He fled the country after Operation Blue Star, floated his own Panthic Committee, and headed KCF. He has been a close associate of Sant Jarnail Singh Bhinderanwale. After leaving India he spent about nine years in Pakistan. After some serious differences with other terrorist leaders and authorities in Pakistan he went to Switzerland and settled there with the help of one of his associates Pritpal Singh Khalsa. News that he is in India were rife recently, though denied by the Punjab Govt. agencies [The Hindustan Times, April 12, 2001: 1]

The Tribune writes an editorial under the heading: "Kharkoo" in the net [Tribune. April 13, 2001: 10]

It says: "Wassan Singh symbolized the uneven promising militant stream of the movement which sucked in hundreds of innocent youngsters, including girls, fielding them to kill and terrorise but also sending them to their graves." The editorial says that after the Punjab Assembly elections of 1992, Pakistan lost interest is men like Zaffarwal. "That country was not interested in the rights and welfare of the Punjabis but in settling score for the loss of East Pakistan, now Bangladesh. When that possibility disappeared, Zaffarwal and Co. became dispensable. From that moment on they lived as prisoners…" It was ludicrous but inevitable given the harsh ground reality. Zaffarwal first came to grips will truth when he migrated to Europe and has done so again and has returned. The rumours of his willingness to surrender stem from and fit in with these known facts." [Zaffarwal swears by democracy. Tribune June 10, 2001: 3]
